

AMERICAN OPENS FIGHT TO RESTRAIN PORTSMOUTH 'RING'

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 16.—A petition for an injunction was filed in the county court at Exeter today by the Boston American to restrain the political ring of this city, headed by Governor John H. Bartlett and Mayor Albert Hildop, from a further interference with its business.

The petition, filed by counsel for the American, sets forth the line of procedure by which the Portsmouth political ring is seeking to intimidate citizens of this district and gain the press. The action was taken after the ring resumed today the persecution of the American and its representatives. In an effort to spread terror in the hearts of the country-wide among those who dare to denounce the bosses of the ring, the leaders of the combination last issued a book of instructions today.

WIDE BACKLOG OF PAPERS.
A part of this intimidation by show of strength of their legal resources, began this morning when Attorney John L. Mitchell, representing Mayor Hildop, and Police Officer Kelley, issued a writ of attachment against the American. They followed up their petty persecution by causing the arrest of circulation manager Harry Weinbaum on the charge of disorderly conduct. Attorney Mitchell had no many warrants in his pockets that he had to go through them carefully before he could find the search and seizure one to take possession of the American. A large crowd had gathered at the railroad station to get the American and get first-hand information of what was transpiring in their city and State government. The business manager hurried the heavy bundles of papers of the city and State government. Manager Weinbaum ripped one open and carried them off. The great was the demand and no wonder that the crowd that they got one of them.

ARRESTED FOR THIRD TIME.
Attorney Mitchell stepped up to Mr. Weinbaum and said: "Here, let me see one of those papers." Weinbaum courteously complied with the request. Mitchell examined the sheet and then served his warrant. An automobile truck owned by Mayor Hildop drove up and the papers were bundled aboard and shipped to the police station. In the meantime many had been sent to the eager public. Weinbaum was then arrested. For the third time on the charge of disorderly conduct. Attorney Samuel W. Dwyer, representing the American, who was also present, objected to the high-handed proceedings. He remonstrated with Mitchell, to no avail.

The petition for the injunction was then drawn up and filed. It seeks to enjoin the Mayor, police officers and the police from interfering with the lawful conduct of the business of the American.

Federal Probers to Force Portsmouth to Pass Measure Keeping Cafes 'Morally Clean'

Skunk Hunters Make Large Profits in Fur Market

Watford, Conn., Jan. 16.—Skunk hunting is the sport of sports in this part of the world. Skunk hunters are doing it. High prices for the skins. Even the humble skunk is almost worth his weight in gold provided the collector has the skill of the proper shade. Skunk skins are most sought. The nearer to black they are the higher the price.

Skunks have netted Fred Sherman of Chocoma $250 in two weeks and he has not yet had to bury his clothes. There's a knack in putting skunks to rest without injury to self. Alvin Randall and Jim Knight of Flat Rock have cleaned up $15.75 on the skunks they have trapped and dug out recently.

A. C. Bennett of Canterbury has made a big run this winter on skins. George Pierce of Union has earned $400 in the last few weeks.

Dr. Dixon said Dr. Dixon, former chairman of the Portsmouth Board of Health, today told of his unsuccessful attempt last year to get the ordinance through the city council. The bill was drawn up, he said, by the members of the Board of Health when the ordinance was introduced at some of the restaurants close to their homes.

The ordinance if passed would have given the Board of Health permission at any time to order attendance at the local eating houses to submit themselves to a physical examination.

The ordinance passed unanimously the first reading before the council but in the second reading failed of passage because of opposition from the city.

The bill, according to Dr. Dixon, was referred to the committee on recent reading, and there it lies today virtually buried. Since then Dr. Dixon's term ran out and he was not reappointed. "I was left at the post because I was in the city after the public health instead of looking after my political career," he said. The doctor sums up his efforts to help the city.

PROPERTY OWNERS OPPOSED.
According to Dr. Dixon the restaurants in Portsmouth are, for the most part, clean and above board, while there are about four or five others that are nothing but dives and are a disgrace to the city. The doctor states that the opposition to the proposed ordinance is from certain members of the corrupt ring who own property in which the eating houses are located, and who naturally feared a loss of good paying tenants.

NEW SUITS FOR $500,000 LOSS $30,000 BEGUN BY FIRE AT PROVIDENCE

Woman Named as Defendant in Defamation Charges by New Hampshire Governor

Providence, Jan. 16.—Damage estimated at fully $500,000 resulted here in one of the most bitterly fought fires in ten years when the five-story brick building at No. 173 Canal street, in the heart of the beef and produce district, was destroyed.

Four alarms were sounded and thirty pieces of apparatus responded, and early in the fire the flames spread so rapidly that it was thought probable assistance from nearby cities would be necessary.

One of the heaviest losses is the A. T. Scattergood Company, dealers in furniture, which occupied the three upper stories as a warehouse. A number of this company estimated their loss at $150,000, which he said was fully covered by insurance.

Dr. George M. Griffin, company butcher and egg merchant; Nelson H. Boston, wholesale beef dealer, and the S. Tourville Company, vegetable produce dealers, and Samuel P. Hull, truckman, were the other occupants of the structure whose property was completely destroyed.

The flames rose to a height of fifty feet and licked the adjoining building at No. 175 Canal street and it was only due to the fact that a broad air way separates the two buildings that this structure was not included in the loss. Property of tenants in the building adjoining the gutted structure, however, failed to escape. Daniel, Raymond and Hunt, a trucking firm, situated on the ground floor, suffered a considerable loss through water damage. The other four floors of the building are occupied by Condon and Carpenter, wholesale hardware merchants, and this company also sustained a loss through damage by water.

The cause of the fire has not been definitely determined. The highly inflammable contents of the structure only served to quicken the spread of the flames. They spread upward rapidly from the Griffin and Edson establishments to the furniture store on the floor above.

The structure was owned by Mrs. Louis Beck of this city.

WOBBUN FAMILY TWICE DRIVEN FROM HOME
The family of Owen McCarron of No. 42 Arlington street, Woburn, were driven from their home by fire today, the second time within a fortnight. The fire started in a shed adjoining the house. Two weeks ago Mrs. McCarron barely rescued her five children when the flames started from a lighted lamp in the kitchen while all the family was in bed.

U. S. TO KEEP RECORD OF ALL LIQUOR SALES IN STORAGE

"Persons owning and dealing in storage of intoxicating liquors which are in storage warehouses shall apply to the Collector of Internal Revenue or the Federal Prohibition Commissioner of the district for a permit to sell their stock for non-beverage purposes," said Acting Collector Andrew J. Casey today, discussing the disposition which could be made of privately stored stock after the constitutional amendment becomes effective.

"The storage thereafter in storage warehouses will be permitted. Provided bond has been furnished by the owner, permit has been issued and the owner has reported same as required by law. He must secure such permit on or before January 25, 1920. In such cases care can be made to wholesale drug stores or pharmacists, as provided by Section 6 of Title II of the National Prohibition Act.

MUST GIVE BOND.

Before permit is granted it will be necessary for the owner to give bond in the minimum of $1000 or the maximum amount of $100,000, and this bond is gauged by the amount of liquor on hand for sale, and is reckoned at the rate of $15 per proof gallon, as to whiskey and brandy.

"Persons who have intoxicating liquor for sale for non-beverage purposes, and who have given the required bond, and have secured a permit, must report on or before January 25, 1920, to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the district the kind and amount of intoxicating liquor on hand, on January 25, 1920.

"This means that wine, beer, whiskey, brandy, cordials, etc., must be specifically shown, and the quantity of each kind indicated. Form for inventory will be furnished to the owners by the collector of internal revenue in which the liquor is stored.

Where owners have intoxicating liquor in more than one collection district, separate reports to cover liquor in each district should be received, and by the owner and filed with the respective collector.

"Persons who have intoxicating liquor in their homes, and who use it for use as contemplated by Section 2 of Title II of the National Prohibition Act will not be required to make report of these liquors.

"It has been illegal," continued Collector Casey, "to sell liquor for beverage purposes since July 3, 1919, and under the provision of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, this has become effective January 17, 1920. It is

CLAMP DOWN ON PROPER CRIMINAL SHIPMENTS OF COUNTRY

Police to Seize All 'Wet' Goods Found in Hotels After 12:01 A. M.

Measures celebrating the passing of the Boston in Boston hotels and cafes tonight must dispose of their "wet" goods before midnight for immunity at 12:01 a. m. else they will be shut down tight and all liquor found on tables in hotels or other public places will be seized by the police.

Complaints against those "caught with the goods" will be made to the Federal authorities, and they will be prosecuted for violation of the national prohibition act.

A letter, under has been issued by Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley ordering commanding officers of the downtown stations to provide extra police details for street duty in the hotel district between midnight and 2 a. m., to be ready for any emergency that should arise with the passing of King Alcohol.

Hotels and cafes were thronged with mourners on the first night of the double observance of John Barrymore's death and every grocery store seemed to be liberally supplied with liquor.

As a result, there were forty-five arrests for drunkenness throughout the city during the night.

Police stations are as follows:

Hauser street, 18; City Hall avenue, 9; John J. Lawrence street, 12; South Boston, 1; Forester street, 1; Charlestown, 2; Black Bay, 1.

Police were not so freely in evidence as on New Year's Eve, but there were more than fifty calls for the deficiency. Bottles were in evidence everywhere but those who took stock in the report that many hotels were not in contact with State law.

"If a person lives at an apartment house, hotel or boarding house, and that place is in his home side residence as described by Sections 21 and 22 of Title II of the National Prohibition Act, intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes may be lawfully kept in such places, provided such intoxicating liquors are in the home or room, or in the lockers of such places, and are not in the possession of a boarding house or hotel, and which are used exclusively for storage purposes and provided further that the liquor was lawfully acquired and possessed prior to January 17, 1920.

This World Like Next, Says Oliver Lodge

New York, Jan. 16.—The "next world" after death may be just the same as the one in which we are now living, according to Sir Oliver Lodge, foremost scientist of Great Britain, who has just arrived here for a lecture tour.

Sir Oliver, whose investigations into the spirit world have gained him international reputation, said that voices from "the other side" often appear to him and animals and other objects which are known to material in this life. Sir Oliver disclosed in his intellectual disquisition long enough to say that prohibition would not affect him as he never used liquor.

"I am not a spiritualist in the generally accepted sense of the term," he said. "I do not regard any psychical investigation as having anything to do with religious questions. I have dealt with psychical phenomena as I would deal with any other natural phenomena, solely from the viewpoint of the scientist."

LOVE PIERCE'S DEATH VEIL.

"A recent, I believe that the strongest force that can be employed in connection with the dead is love. This is especially true in loving men who have died in the war. Their nature has been so much more sympathetic and have sent messages through them."

"I know that psychical research has been of great comfort to many parents who have been bereaved by war, and I have received many letters from such parents and have endeavored to assist any person in communicating with the departed, if they appeared in the proper form of mental balance."

"My book, 'Raymond,' which is a memorial to a son I lost in the war, has probably caused many persons to believe in the existence of the spirit world. I have done this, I believe, by the spirit of the departed, having felt its material body, using the body of the medium to communicate with the living."

"I approve of the use of the ouija board, but think its use is inadvisable or morally irresponsible for children and not masters of their emotions. That some persons may have become insane or morally irresponsible following its use is no reason for general condemnation of the instrument."

"The link which is communicated in the strongest force that will cause the dead to act is love. Love is a power which will bring him. I have known a man (Mr. Henry) to bring back his spirit through the operation of the ether I have found a hypothesis as to the manner and nature of the

NO PAIN AS ONE SEES SURGEON USE KNIFE

New Anesthetic Has Been Employed With Wonderful Results. It Is Announced

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 16.—Those who wish to watch the surgeon as he operates as a result of the discovery of a new anesthetic.

Every flourish of the surgeon's knife, as he made it over an anesthetic, can be observed, and one will be able to make certain that the patient does not forget the experience and anxious before sewing up wounds.

The new anesthetic is the fruit of experiments with certain gases, which were added in the ether. The combination finally discovered has been utilized with wonderful results, not only in all major operations, but in cases where the old type of ether was not feasible. In obstetrical cases it proved a boon, as well as in dentistry. Filling of teeth, treatment of nerves, and the removal of roots can now be accomplished entirely without pain.

A feature of the new ether is the fact that it leaves no nausea as the after-effect. E. J. DuPont & Co. announce the discovery.

'KIDNAPING' ONLY WOULD LIGHTEN TAX BURDEN OF WIDOWS

Infant Taken From Everett Home Is With Cambridge Woman

Claims that an eight-month-old baby had been kidnapped from the home of Mrs. William Underwood of Everett by a "mystery woman" were disproved today, when the baby was discovered happy and well nursed for in the home of Mrs. Emma Hagan of Cambridge.

Mrs. Hagan has had the infant all the time that she has had it in the home of Mrs. Underwood. She alleges that the child was the result of a conspiracy of friends who had adopted the child and had given it a false name, and declares that she regretted to be advised she supposed to be that of the baby's mother, but got no answer.

Mrs. Underwood was boarding the baby for the mother at her home, No. 32 Everett street, Everett. On January 3, Mrs. Hagan went to the home to take the child for a week's trial, as the mother could not support it and was willing to have it adopted.

The alleged father of Mrs. Hagan to request within a week but Mrs. Underwood and the mother to fear that she had run off with the infant, and they made their escape public.

Mrs. Hagan denied the charge, and explained the unfortunate publicity, but the latter was not at home. The Cambridge woman said that she had been willing to adopt the baby as at first planned, unless more satisfactory arose.

To Put Life in Sermons, Read Papers, Bishop Lawrence Advises

Bishop William Lawrence, of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts, calls upon his clergy to read the newspapers, if they desire to make their sermons more vigorous.

His counsel is given in connection with the nation-wide campaign which has just started in the diocese to awaken the congregation to more aggressive undertakings for religion.

In speaking of the daily press, the bishop says:

"All we need to do is to read the newspapers to discover how people of today, even those who have high ideals, want their thoughts expressed to them in concrete and vigorous language."

Mendes was said by officials to have made a statement to the police saying that Mr. Jenkins "voluntarily abdicated himself" and that when he was being taken by force to the mountains near Puebla he requested that the party proceed by unfrequented roads so that he would not meet anyone who would recognize him.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmer, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, eat less meat, but drink plenty of water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles of the limbs, and causing the inflammation and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinges of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of a bottle of "Rheumatism Remedy" and take it before breakfast on morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Just take it, it is perfectly harmless, and is made from the seed of grapes and from pure combined with other salts. It is the most effective remedy for rheumatism. Here you have a medicine which keeps uric acid out of the blood and keeps your kidneys in good action.

ANTI-SEMITISM INCREASING, SAYS NORDAU

Declares Jews Are Passing Through Most Momentous
Phase in 3,000 Years

By MAX NORDAU, (Noted French writer and Zionist leader.)

Special Table Talk by Dr. Nordau at Hotel Paris Jan. 14.—The Jew is passing through the most momentous phase of their three thousand years history. In the old days the Jew was despised, but now he is the warrior of the world. He is the only one of the 30 nations of Jews living—a nation, carried out by the French and the English.
The Jew is not only in the lead and the world is following him.
But what is the Jew fighting for?
Even in the most advanced and highly civilized nations of the West a huge mass of anti-Semitism is growing up.
In the new countries that have arisen in the last hundred years are found against the Jew. A Jew is put in the dark places in the British Empire. In favor of a Jew is the Jewish home state in Palestine. This home will be what the Jews make it, but I have every faith in the British government.

Have you noticed that baby's skin looks rough and scaly, or possibly that little spot of eczema which itches and makes him fretful, has appeared on his body? Or maybe the soft little folds of his flesh have become chafed and irritated. For all these discomforts use Resinol Ointment, added by Resinol Soap. See how quickly the gentle, soothing preparations—filled with healing Resinol balsams—will relieve baby's torment and bring re-

It's extremely gratifying to us to see so many men taking advantage of this Mark-Down Sale Of All Our Winter Overcoats

Not because there's any financial profit for us in selling these coats at these reduced prices, but because it is relieving us of an overstocked position and turning into cash a large surplus of overcoats that reached us several weeks too late for the regular selling season.

Also because it gives proof that thrift is not dead, as some have claimed, but that the great majority of men are as keen now as ever to take advantage of a legitimate opportunity to make a real saving of real money.

The savings on these coats are in reality much more than the price reductions now in effect, for the original prices were way under what such coats could be bought for anywhere else, and even less than this winter's wholesale cost.

So in view of their comparatively high quality and their comparatively low original prices the values are truly extraordinary even without taking into consideration the fact that such coats will cost considerably more next winter than this.

At the end of the forenoon prices were only a shade below the opening level. The market was very dull and slow except for small, nothing of interest featured the trading. Attendance at exchange house was meagre. The advance of the local rail market while on a falling trend, a point while United Fruit received one and a half points. This slight rise treated the continued character of the price movement. All other classes were fractional.

President Right, and We Support Him for Referendum on League

President Wilson is emphatically right in his desire to submit the whole question of this League of Nations to a referendum vote of the people of the United States.

This is the only way in which this question should be settled, and the only way in which it can be settled finally and satisfactorily.

The fact that Mr. Wilson probably should have reached this conclusion earlier is of no importance. He has reached this conclusion now, and it is the right conclusion.

The fact that Mr. Wilson may have this or that motive for coming to this conclusion is of no consequence. If a man's act and utterance are right, it is unwise and unfair to try to discover some improper motive.

Mr. Wilson's demand that the matter of the League of Nations be settled by popular vote is democratic and patriotic, and he is entitled to unstinted praise and unmeasured support in his endeavor to accomplish this patriotic result with this democratic method.

It is to be hoped that the Senate, which has so far deserved and secured so much credit by being the more democratic and more American factor in this League of Nations discussion, will not now make the mistake of getting on the wrong side, through its opposition to Mr. Wilson, and becoming the undemocratic and the un-American factor in the final disposition of the matter.

It is surprising that Mr. Bryan, who has consistently, and we think conscientiously, advocated the principle of the referendum for years, should now refuse to apply that principle in the most important question that has ever come before the American Government, and which can come before the American people.

But Mr. Bryan has a peculiar faculty of saying the right thing at the wrong time and doing the wrong thing at the right time, which greatly discourages his more judicious admirers.

It is comprehensible that the Democratic party may not wish to carry into a presidential campaign what most of its representatives realize to be the unpopular as well as the undemocratic side of this controversy.

It is astounding that any genuine Democrat should wish to substitute his personal view for the opinions and desires of the whole people.

And it is discreditable that any Democrat, believing the ratification of the treaty to be undemocratic and unpopular, should wish to deprive the people of the United States of an opportunity to express their popular opinion in an essentially democratic way.

If the Democratic party, therefore, attempts to pass this treaty in opposition to the will of the Democratic masses and in contradiction of the desire of the Democratic President, it will do more to harm itself in the coming campaign than if it carried into that campaign the unpopular side of an unsettled controversy.

There is, however, a proper solution of the whole matter which will not involve carrying the question into a presidential campaign; which will not burden the Democratic party with the unpopular, un-American side of this controversy; which will settle the question speedily, as it should be settled, without having to wait for a presidential campaign; and which will allow other issues, which should receive popular attention, to become the issues on which the presidential campaign can be fought.

This plan is by legislation to refer the whole League of Nations question to a referendum vote at a special election.

In such a special election the question could be decided more accurately and more definitely and more positively than it could be decided in even a presidential campaign.

Three questions could be submitted to the public:

First—The acceptance of the treaty exactly as Mr. Wilson brought it back from England;

Second—The acceptance of the treaty with the Lodge reservations;

Third—The total rejection of the treaty.

This paper believes that the treaty should be totally rejected; and it further believes that the people, if allowed to vote on the matter, will totally reject the treaty.

But if the editor of this paper knew that the treaty would be accepted by the people, he would still recommend that the treaty be referred to a popular referendum and that the government abide by the expressed will of the people.

To be sure, Washington and Jefferson and Madison and Monroe and Jackson and Lincoln and Cleveland, and every great statesman that America has ever had, have advised our people not to mangle in the complications and conspiracies and conflicts of Europe—to keep free from "entangling alliances," as Washington originally phrased it.

And this paper believes that these great statesmen were absolutely sound in their advice to the American people.

But it believes still more that the American people have the right to register their own will and to carry out their own plans and to accept or reject the advice of any statesman, alive or dead.

The fundamental principle of this government and of all republican government is that it represents the will of the people—not the preferences, prejudices or dicta of any statesman.

The opinion of the people, the will of the people, is and should be largely guided by the advice of their greatest and most patriotic statesman.

But if, at any time, the people should desire to override the advice of any one or all of the statesmen and change the plan and policy of the government and of the country, they have the democratic, American right to do so.

Therefore, the editor of this paper believes that no matter what the decision of the public shall be, the opportunity to decide this momentous question should be given to the citizens of the United States, and not arrogated to himself by any statesman or any leader, no matter how able and honored he may be.

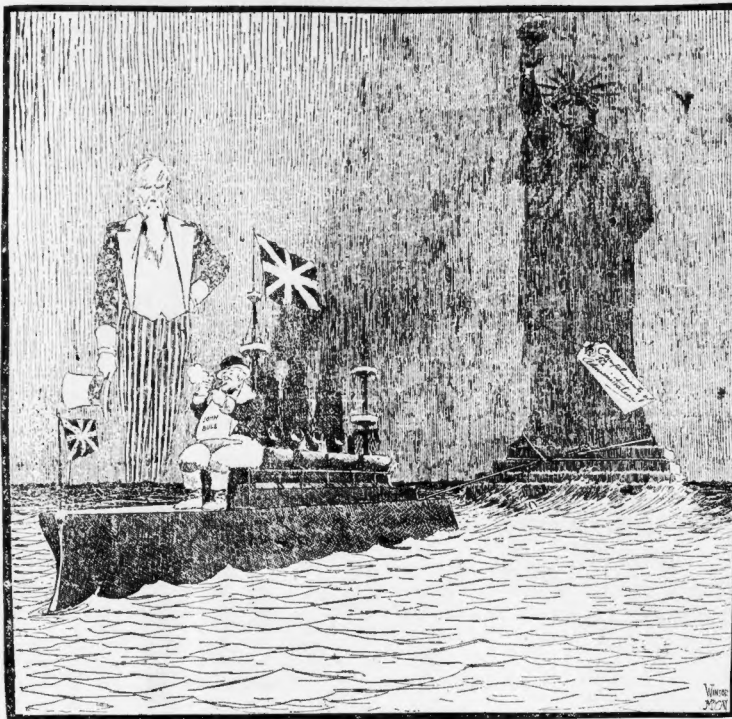

Mr. Wilson was wrong, therefore, when he attempted himself to decide this question, and the American opposed him because he was wrong.

Now he is right when he desires to submit this important matter to a referendum vote of the people, and the American supports him heartily and enthusiastically and unreservedly because he is right.

The Morgan Memorial and Its Work

By Randolph Welford Smith.

WITNESS the fact that this grave problem has been at last solved in the Morgan Memorial. If that institution did not include in the luxury of outside help, it would not only be self-supporting, but have a profitable return from the multitudinous labors of its hundreds of guests. By "outside help" cases are meant that really belong to other institutions, but the Morgan Memorial turns no one away that is not positively criminal.

"And," said Mr. Moore, casually, "we do not dwell on the criminal side of a man's character. There is something worthwhile in every one if we can only reach it."

That phrase, "There is something worthwhile in every one," might be added to the slogan suggested "All the good that's fit to do" for the whole institution.

One good Samaritan has given the Memorial several hundred thousand dollars. Other lesser lights other minor thousands, and the great plant, with its Church of All Nations, its remarkable industrial workshops, storehouses, dormitories, nurseries, play rooms, theatre, assembly hall, and heaven knows what else, is worth half a million dollars. There was a time when one of its buildings was about to be sold at auction because Dr. Helms and his assistants could not make both ends meet. The auctioneer was actually on the ground. But the day was saved through the good offices of some of the friends of the institution.

How much do you suppose this country would have lost in graft, official stupidity and plain robbery if the war had lasted a few years more? It would have bankrupted a dozen countries like the United States.

The lesson is, that however much precaution against war may cost, it will be cheap.

A young man named Newberry, a girl, killed her in a lonely ride, leaving the body in a railway car and confessing.

He was sent to the penitentiary because she broke her engagement. The suicide might be pardoned, as the unfortunate young woman was about to become a mother.

The young man is charged with the murder in the second degree. The jury's verdict must be tribute to the young man's imagination. What is murder in the first degree if it is not a killing under such conditions?

Patriotism, Chicago Brand Other Cities Need It To Make Money, Make Quantity

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1920.

Patriotism, national and local, is a building force; through the ages it has urged man to do something worth while on his particular spot.

Observe Chicago. The fast train stops, the porter yells "Chicago" with all his might, well satisfied with himself as the doctor who says "It's a boy."

Every Chicagoan hears the magic word with intense pleasure. Never mind about the smoke that lies low, the wind that whistles, the slippery pavements, the blinding snow, it's Chicago.

Your pilgrimage leads to the big stone building where Marshall Field built his hundred millions. A young man, James Simpson, sits in the older man's place. You say to him, "Don't fail to buy that Cornelius Vanderbilt house at 57th street and Fifth avenue, it's the most valuable piece of real estate in the world, because of its marvelous possibilities, and—"

You can go no further. The Chicago business man is on his feet. "Hold on, you're wrong. The most valuable piece of real estate in the world now, and in the future, is at the corner of State and Madison, right in this city. The world's greatest future is right here. We can do here for fifty or a hundred million what you couldn't do in New York, Paris or London for twenty times the money, and we will do it."

"I read what you wrote about the convention of Hearst executives, the site of Mr. Hearst's New York paper and all that sort of it. But Mr. Hearst's best and most valuable papers are right here in Chicago. I don't believe that Mr. Hearst himself realizes what it is to have such papers as he has in this city. Of all his properties the Chicago papers are the crown jewels."

Thus talks every earnest Chicago citizen. To him Lake Michigan is better than any Mediterranean, Illinois is the Garden of Eden, and Chicago is the choice spot where the tree of life grows. He doesn't hear the East calling and he doesn't go West. He stays where he is, builds an "fine home," tears down, builds another one bigger and fiercer as he can afford it, and piles all outside of Chicago, as the Turk used to pile in Glaur.

A successful manufacturer puts material success in five words: make money, make money, make money, make money, make money.

It means, with the right inspiration and the right control, lower prices for the consumer. Not a more stupid than attempting by law to limit the price of necessities or an organization. The bigger the better. For business, when it is honest, means success.

Encourage men and organizations to develop to the utmost, then regulate them, their prices and their profits. When the public can be served by compelling ten or a hundred little enterprises to join together in a big one, it is a political economy. The postoffice is cheap and carries letters for two cents because it is an absolute monopoly, able to concentrate on service without the worry of competition.

"Millions of dollars stolen through United States shipbuilding frauds in Oregon, California and elsewhere."

Surprising. When a country spends six hundred millions for air ships and gets in return practically nothing, it must expect to be reasonably robbed on its own soil.

Government started out to rob itself with its historic program. Make it cost all you can and it will give you all you want.

It was sure to find a profit. It was sure to find a profit. It was sure to find a profit. It was sure to find a profit.

How much do you suppose this country would have lost in graft, official stupidity and plain robbery if the war had lasted a few years more? It would have bankrupted a dozen countries like the United States.
